ABOUT KOORDA

Approximately 240km and 3 hours' drive north-east of Perth situated along the popular 'Wheatbelt Way' self drive trail, Koorda's main industries include wheat, coarse grain and sheep farming. During springtime experience remarkable wildflower displays, with some species unique to the area. Koorda was famously referred to as 'Corn Dolly Country,' attracting sightseers wanting to learn more about the ancient tradition of creating 'dollies' from stalks and husks of wheat. In 2019 Koorda saw a re-branding to adopt the catch phrase "Drive In, Stay Awhile."

The town offers great facilities for visitors to enjoy, from its wonderful Wheatbelt scenery, local attractions, museums and Drive In theatre, to sporting recreational services such as a 24/7 gym, golf course, tennis courts, lawn bowls, children's playgrounds, skate park and much, much more. There are numerous scenic areas to stop at, most with public BBQ and toilet facilities. Redcliffe, Mollerin Rock, Newcarlbeon, Koorda Native Flora Reserve and Badgerin Rock are popular spots to enjoy the surroundings and perhaps spot some of the local inhabitants.

In October 1836 the Surveyor General, John Septimus Roe, led an expedition to the east of the Avon Valley, in a search for pastoral land. One of his camps was located a few miles north of the present town of Koorda. By the 1860s a few pastoral homesteads were set up at favoured places. Generally a settler would be granted a free homestead block of 160 acres plus a conditional purchase block to make a total of 1,000 acres (445.5 hectares). The majority of early Koorda residents took up land on this basis, which required them to reside on their properties, install fences and make other improvements. The railway north and east from Wyalkatchem was gazetted in 1917 to serve the farmers settling in the area; a siding named Koorda, being at a central point, automatically became the district's name. In the same year a large dam was sunk in Koorda to meet the water requirements of the area.

In 1917 when the Koorda townsite sprang up around the railway worker's camp, it saw the establishment of a general store, post office, blacksmith, greengrocer and hotel to accommodate seasonal workers, mainly baggers of wheat. The settlers built themselves a Hall, (now the Pioneer Memorial Hall), extending it in 1924. The Koorda Road Board, inaugurated in 1928, used the extension for their office until their own building was completed in Railway Street, which now serves as the CWA Community Centre. 1958 saw the opening of the new Koorda Memorial Hall and the extension of the Comprehensive Water Scheme to Koorda. In 1962 the Bowling Club was opened, and the following six years saw the Swimming Pool brought into use, the Drive In theatre opened, the State Energy Commission taking over the supply of electricity to the town, and the Silver Chain Nursing Post was established. Subsequently the new Police Station and Courthouse were built as the centre for Police and R.T.A. administration. During 1975 the new Shire Administration building was erected and officially opened on 19th March 1976. 1978 saw the Golden Jubilee of Local Government in Koorda, and this is commemorated by the Memorial Stone in the Lions Park (now Community Garden).

KOORDA DRIVE IN (Map #7)

History of the Koorda Drive In

The Koorda Drive In opened in October 1965 after the Shire of Koorda took out a loan of £2,500 to build it. The Drive In was first leased out to Paddy Baker and run by two locals. Baker would send up films from Perth and once they were screened in Koorda on the Friday and Saturday night, they would get sent to Trayning to screen them on the Sunday night. The venue which held 110 cars, filled several times. Three main overflow nights; one screening of The Sound of Music and twice on the Gone with the Wind screening. In 1983 after TV became popular, the Drive In became less popular and the venue was closed.

In 1987 it re-opened and screenings were held once a month at first and then less regularly in the 90s. Up until the upgrade in 2015, numbers dwindled, however with the ability to show new release movies, the Drive In regained its popularity as a unique family outing.

At the peak of the Drive In industry, there were over 80 in WA. Today, Koorda is one of a couple still operating in WA. In March 2015 an upgrade of the projection system was completed with the new digital equipment offering a clearer picture and the ability to screen new releases. The original Simplex projectors (manufactured/built in 1929) are still operational, and one is now on display in the Kiosk. In 2016 the kiosk was given a “retro” renovation to mimic the original design of the classic Drive In.

The Koorda Drive In is truly a unique and memorable experience for all.

The Drive In generally has monthly screenings. For more details visit the facebook page or call the Koorda Community Resource Centre or Shire of Koorda for latest screening details.

Koorda saw a re-branding in 2019 and welcomed the catch phrase “Drive In, Stay Awhile” that incorporates our iconic Drive In and showcases our town as a great place to live, work and travel in.

HISTORY OF THE CORN DOLLY

History of the Corn Dolly

In the past Koorda was commonly referred to as the “Corn Dolly Country.” Read on below to discover the history of the ancient tradition and to view photos of the Corn Dolly handicrafts.

The Corn Dolly making is an ancient craft going back thousands of years, when it was thought that a spirit lived in the cornfields. To preserve this spirit at harvest time, and ensure the success of next year's harvest, a corn dolly was made for the spirit to rest in. Nowadays, the Corn Dolly is a decorative symbol of peace and prosperity in the home throughout the year and made from husks of wheat.

The art of the Corn Dolly making was first brought to Koorda by Mr Frank Lodge in 1911, from his home county of Durham in England. Mr Lodge would keep some wheat stalks from his harvest to plait into “Countryman's Favours” and freely gave them away to people he met, especially new arrivals to town, on his regular Friday shopping trip. He would also give them to the ladies when the local dances were held in the Town Hall. The Shire of Koorda adopted the Corn Dolly “The Simple Countryman's Favour” as the Shire emblem in 1974 at the suggestion of Councillor Colin Cooke.

Today Corn Dollies no longer have the ritual significance they once enjoyed, but with modern ideas and techniques, they have evolved into a creative and decorative art form.

Corn Dolly work of some form is seen all over the world in cereal growing areas, American plaiters call their work ‘wheat weaving,’ Swiss plaiters are renowned for their ‘split straw work.’ England is the centre for the annual ‘Corn Dolly’ workshops and Harvest Maidens can be found in Indonesia where they use rice straw. The women in Belarus in Russia plait beautifully designed items of clothing for decorative purposes.

At the northern most point of the Cowcowing lake system, Redcliffe offers a picturesque contrast from the white salt lakes panes to the red granite outcrops that form the "Red Cliffe."

The Rifle range is also located here, so please exercise caution if the area is being used for rifle practise.

Mollerin Rock

During late winter and spring, this nature reserve has a picturesque display of wildflowers and beautiful panoramic views from the top of the rock.

Tank Located: (-30.672302, 117.287066)

Mt Collier Dam

Located 67km north from town on Scotsman Road, Mt Collier Dam is a lovely picnic destination for the whole family to enjoy. Constructed in 1930 Mt Collier dam has the capacity to hold 170,000 gallons (265,000L). All the rock catchments, soaks, dams and tanks are hugely important and significant sites firstly in the wandering lives of the first possessors of this land, then as a source of water for the explorers, pastoralists and sandalwood pullers and then for the settlers themselves.

The settlement of the Wheatbelt is a story of men and women going out to a land almost without water, hoping to gain prosperity and independence. It was a huge experiment in which the settlers risked finding water and storing it somehow, carting it labouriously over long distances and existing with the absolute minimum to keep themselves and their animals alive. The 'granites' with their gnamma holes and soaks and then the building of the dams, tanks and catchment walls has enormous importance and relevance for the farmers who have gone on to prosper and succeed.

History

It all started with Koorda! Flashing back to the “Koorda History,” in October 1836 the Surveyor General, John Septimus Roe, led an expedition to the east of the Avon Valley, in a search for pastoral land. One of his camps was located a few miles north of the present town of Koorda. Water was found only in the rock and gnamma holes and the soaks at granite hills. Roe contacted few natives, and gave few aboriginal names. Hardy settlers of the Avon Valley started sending flocks and herds out to make use of grasses and water found beside the lakes and the granite out-crops, and a nomadic pastoral industry developed. Seekers of sandalwood made more tracks, and by the 1860’s a few pastoral homesteads were set up at favoured places.

Apart from the extension of pastoral holdings into the district in the 1880's, no further development occurred until the premiership of Sir John Forrest in the 1890's, when several Acts of Parliament were passed that were designed to facilitate the populating of vast regions of the inland plateau with “bold peasantry.” Generally a settler would be granted a free homestead block of 160 acres plus a conditional purchase block to make a total of 1,000 acres (445.5 hectares). The majority of early residents took up land on this basis, which required them to reside on their properties, install fences and make other improvements.

The regions pioneers were thus part of the sweeping development of wheat farming across agriculturally marginal areas of the State. The early isolation and lack of skills, capital and equipment encouraged people to turn to neighbours for assistance, a characteristic which has led to a strong sense of community across the Wheatbelt Way. Clearing and ploughing, often facing an uphill battle against climate and discomfort, the pioneers in the early years of this century established the foundations of what was to become a flourishing wheat and sheep producing region.

The Wheatbelt Way consists of the Shires of Dowerin, Wyalkatchem, Koorda, Mt Marshall, Mukinbudin, Westonia, Nungarin and Trayning. Altogether, it has an area of 2,602,524 hectares and a population of around 4,500 people. The Wheatbelt encompasses a range of environments and communities and as a result has a range of industries operating in the region.

The area has a seasonal mediterranean climate with cool wet winters and hot dry summers. Average annual rainfall varies between 280mm and 360mm with approximately two-thirds falling between May to September. Average monthly maximum temperature ranges from 16 degrees Celsius in winter to 36 degrees Celsius in summer.

The region is highly suited to dryland agriculture, and is the source of nearly two thirds of Western Australian wheat production, half of its wool production, and a majority of the states lamb and mutton production. In contrast, the eastern fringe of the Wheatbelt Way is more arid, and the mining of minerals – mainly gold also takes place here.

When to do the trail

Summer in the Wheatbelt Way is long hot and dry, with winters being mild and cool. The summer average daily maximum temperature is around 34 degrees, with a daily minimum of 17 degrees Celsius. In Winter this becomes the daily maximum with an average minimum of 5 degrees. The average annual rainfall is around 300 millimetres usually falling between March and November, with occasional thunderstorms in Summer. Whatever the season, temperatures can drop below 10 degrees Celsius (50 degrees Fahrenheit), so it is suggested to bring some warm clothing. Average annual rainfall is less than 300 millimetres. Warm clothes will be required in the winter months (June – August) as the temperature can sometimes drop below zero degrees. Don't let the weather put you off travelling to the area, however, as the Wheatbelt remains a charming and beautiful part of the world all year round.

What to bring

The towns along the Wheatbelt Way all have a good standard of accommodation, amenities and services. Both unleaded petrol and diesel are readily available. Likewise, a good range of food will be available in most towns along the trail, however a more limited selection is available in the smaller towns.

Getting to the Wheatbelt Way

The Wheatbelt Way Drive Trail is designed as a self-drive adventure and can be undertaken comfortably in a conventional two-wheel drive vehicle. You can plan your trip and personalise your trip to or through the Wheatbelt Way to start and finish in many locations, we do have a suggested 4-day itinerary from Perth which can be found here.

The trail is along both bitumen and gravel roads of which are generally in good condition. On all gravel or dirt roads, regardless of their condition, it is essential to travel at a speed that allows you to safely respond to any situation. Although a number of towns along the Wheatbelt Way have mechanical repairs, conducting a thorough check of your vehicle is imperative. In particular, paying special attention to the tyres of your car or caravan, and making sure all mechanicals are in good working order, will go a long way to ensuring your trip is incident free. It is also essential to remember that the Wheatbelt Way, despite being only a few hours out of Perth, is still a rural area. This means exercising caution on the roads and making sure your lights work and are on during country driving. If you have one, a portable first aid kit will give you extra piece of mind.

Getting Around the Wheatbelt Way

To complement the trail map, the entire Trail route has been sign-posted with directional road signs. These signs are trail signs strategically placed at intersections and turning points. In addition, there are signs indicating the location of each trail site (stopping point), of which there are also one or more information panels. To help plan your trip and get around the Wheatbelt Way even easier we recommend you download the Wheatbelt Way App (from the App Store or Google Play) which has maps and GPS built in it so you know exactly where you are all the time. This will give you the finer detail on what to look out for along the way and its navigation made easy!
